

AGED CAVALRY LEADER IN WORLD WAR LANGUAGE HAS GONE WEST.

Captain Miller Won Distinguished Service Medal at the Battle of Gettysburg.

Captain William E. Miller, of Carlisle, passed away on Wednesday, December 10, in his 84th year. He was Carlisle's most prominent Civil War veteran and was well known to hundreds of Adams county people in politics and business ways. He had been in failing health for some years and his walk had been marked by a paralytic stroke from which he had not fully recovered. He came of an old family of the Cumberland Valley, dating back before the Revolutionary War. Captain Miller entered the service in the formation of the cavalry service and served until the end of the war in the Third Pennsylvania Cavalry, starting as a private and winning promotion until in command. He took part in a number of the battles of the war and had a brilliant part in the great cavalry fight of the battle of Gettysburg. When in the afternoon of July 3 Wade Hampton and Fitzhugh Lee tried to break through the Union Cavalry line and get to the rear of the Union line, and Custer and Gregg met the onslaught, it was Captain Miller who charged the Hampton Horse on the flank and helped to win the day. Capt. Miller was an old time Democrat and was elected to the State Senate from the Adams-Cumberland District and served with credit and distinction. He was engaged in the hardware business in Carlisle for years. He was a member of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion, and had been awarded the medal for Distinguished Service at Gettysburg. He was twice married. He leaves one daughter.

THE GRAY WOLVES' CHORUS THE CRUCIFIXION OF TREATY OF PEACE BY PARTY POLITICS.

The Call to the Jackalls to a Feast of Selfishness and Cannon Fodder in the War a Little Way Ahead.

(By Dr. Frank Crane.)

Hurrah! We have killed the League of Nations! Ha, Ha! Ho, Ho! Come hither, jackalls, wolves, hyenas! The lions have finished. We begin. The lions fought at the Marne, at Chateau Thierry, Argonne Wood, Parsifals, pure fools, they died for the Ideal.

They thought they would end the war. That when they had smashed the Hun they would end the Old Order. The Old Order of mad National Vanities. Of vast armies and navies, crushing impoverishing the workers, draining the State, wasting the fruits of labor.

The Old Order-Militarism, enveloping, strangling every Nation as a shirt of Nessus. We have undone all that. We have shattered the Unity of the Allies they Achieved.

We have hurled insult to France, Italy, England, our late companions in arms. We have smashed the President, with his proud Idealism, stained his plume with blood, his shield with grime.

We have butchered the hope of the World with the knife of Party Politics.

We have published abroad that Americans are good quitters and bad sports. That we will fight for our own safety, but will do nothing to save the world.

Let the Armenians starve, and the Turk rave, and the Poles perish, and all the world burn up. What do we care? What do the jackalls care for the visions in the brain they munch?

Come boys! Circle and dance! Join hands and sing! Bark, Sherman! Capet, Reed! Boast, Borah! Laugh, Lodge!

Up with the Nationalism that means selfishness, shame, truculence, and another war!

Down with an Americanism that means, Co-operation, Faith, Brotherhood, and similar twaddle! Berlin rejoices. The Bolsheviks chorle! Monarchists and reactionaries all over the world smile and say, "I told you so!"

War is not dead. War lives. We have saved it. Build greater navies! Increase your armies! Expand your cannon factories and powder mills.

Get ready for the next war. Save your little boys. O Mothers. Be careful of them. We'll need them soon.

We have killed the League.

We have enacted the greatest Crucifixion since our forefathers nailed the dreamer-Christ to the cross.

Let there be a holiday in Hell.

Cut in Train Service.

Coal saving is said to be the cause of the inconvenient cut in trains on the Western Maryland R. R. by which the 8.59 A. M. train for York starts at Gettysburg and ends at 5.55 at Gettysburg. There is but one train a day to Highfield, west at 10.10 in the morning and east at 6.55 in the evening.

Christmas suggestions galore will be found in the advertisements in this issue and there are no better stores than in Gettysburg.

THE APPEAL TO THE MINERS PRESIDENT WILSON ASKS MINERS TO GO TO WORK.

On Wage Increase to Come Out of the Profits of Coal Operators and no Advance in Price of Coal.

President Wilson's proposal to the miners in session at Indianapolis was as follows:

"I have watched with deep concern the developments in the bituminous coal strike and am convinced there is much confusion in the minds of the people generally and possibly of both parties to this unfortunate controversy as to the attitude and purposes of the government in its handling of the situation.

"The mine owners offered a wage increase of 20 per cent, conditioned, however, upon the price of coal being raised to an amount sufficient to cover this proposed increase of wages, which would have added at least $150,000,000 to the annual coal bill of the people. The fuel administrator in the light of present information has taken the position and I think with entire justification, that the public is now paying as high prices for coal as it ought to be requested to pay and that any wage increase made at this time ought to come out of the profits of the coal operators.

"In reaching this conclusion, the fuel administrator expressed the personal opinion that the 14 per cent increase in all mine wages is reasonable because it would equalize the miners' wages on the average with the cost of living, but he made it perfectly clear that the operators and the miners are at liberty to agree upon a larger increase provided the operators will pay it out of their profits so that the price of coal would remain the same.

Will Help Form Tribunal.

"The secretary of labor, in an effort at conciliation between the parties expressed his personal opinion in favor of a larger increase. His effort at conciliation failed, however, because the coal operators were unwilling to pay the scale he proposed unless the government would advance the price of coal to the public and this the government was unwilling to do.

"The fuel administrator had also suggested that a tribunal be created in which the miners and operators would be equally represented to consider further questions of wages and working conditions, as well as profits of operators and proper prices for coal. I shall, of course, be glad to aid in the formation of such a tribunal.

"I understand the operators have generally agreed to absorb an increase of 14 per cent in wages, so that the public would pay not to exceed the present price fixed by the fuel administrator, and thus a way is opened to secure the coal of which the people stand in need, if the miners will resume work on these terms pending a thorough investigation by an impartial commission which may readjust both wages and prices.

If Miners Refuse.

"By the acceptance of such a plan, the miners are assured immediate steady employment at a substantial increase in wages and are further assured prompt investigation and action upon questions which are not now settled to their satisfaction. I must believe that with a clear understanding of these points, they will promptly return to work. If, nevertheless, they persist in remaining on strike, they will put themselves in an attitude of striking in order to force the government to increase the price of coal to the public, so as to give a still further increase in wages at this time rather than allow the question of a further increase in wages to be dealt with in an orderly manner by a fairly constituted tribunal representing all parties interested.

"No group of our people can justify such a position and the miners owe it to themselves, their families, their fellow workmen in other industries and to their country to return to work.

Must Go to Work First.

"Immediately upon a general resumption of mining, I shall be glad to aid in the prompt formation of such a tribunal as I have indicated to make further inquiries into this whole matter and to review not only the reasonableness of the wages at which the miners start to work but also the reasonableness of the government prices for coal. Such a tribunal should within sixty days make its report which could be used as a basis for negotiation for a wage agreement. I must make it clear, however, that the government cannot give its aid to any such further investigation until there is a general resumption of work.

"I ask every individual miner to give his personal thought to what I say. I hope he understands fully that he will be hurting his own interest and the interest of his family and will be throwing countless other laboring men out of employment if he shall continue the present strike, and further, that he will create an unnecessary and unfortunate prejudice against organized labor which will be injurious to the best interests of working men everywhere.

(Signed)

"WOODROW WILSON."

The miners' representatives by a practically unanimous vote, all but one, voted to accept the President's terms and go to work and the great five weeks' coal strike is at an end.

Commends Bond Issue.

"Whereas, The Gettysburg Town Council in a commendable spirit of progressiveness, has authorized a special election to be held for the approval or disapproval of a bond issue of $35,000 for street improvement which if carried will relieve the taxpayers from the excess taxes made necessary by a senseless and extravagant system of patch work under which $8000, the interest on amount over $132,000 was spent in repairing streets during the year of 1918, and during the year 1919 over $2000 for oiling, and a large sum for repairs—therefore be it

"Resolved, That the Gettysburg Chamber of Commerce do commend and endorse said action of the Town Council as a proper effort in the interest of economy, increasing the comfort and removing a menace to the health of our people and advise favorable action of the electors on the bond issue."

Fire Destroys Mill.

The roller process flour mill of Robt. B. Myers along Conewago Creek at the outskirts of Arendtsville, together with the electric light plant supplying Arendtsville and vicinity, burned to the ground Wednesday night entailing a loss of $20,000, with only about $4,000 of insurance. The electric light plant was located in the Myers flour mill and the blaze is supposed to have been started from dust getting into the bearings of a machine. The mill had been operated night and day for weeks past and the men working about the plant were taking a half hour's rest between 3 and 4 o'clock Wednesday morning, when flames suddenly burst forth and spread so rapidly that nothing could be saved. Large quantities of grain and flour burned with the machinery of the mill and the electric equipment. A stiff gale fanned the flames and nearby properties were saved with the greatest difficulty.

Doctor Tells How to Detect Harmful Effects of Tobacco

Try These SIMPLE TESTS

New York: Doctor Connor, formerly of Johns Hopkins hospital, says that many men who smoke, chew or pipe incessantly and who are seemingly healthy are suffering from progressive organic ailments. Thousands of them would never have been afflicted had it not been for the use of tobacco, and thousands would soon get well if they would only stop the use of tobacco. The chief habit-forming principle of tobacco is nicotine, a deadly poison which, when absorbed by the system, slowly affects the nerves, membranes, tissues and vital organs of the body. The harmful effect of tobacco varies and depends on circumstances. One will be afflicted with general debility, others with catarrh of the throat, indigestion, constipation, extreme nervousness, sleeplessness, loss of memory, lack of will power, mental confusion, etc. Others may suffer from heart disease, bronchial trouble, hardening of the arteries, tuberculosis, blindness or even cancer or the common affection known as tobacco heart. If you use tobacco in any form you can easily detect the harmful effects by making the following simple tests. Hold a glass one full inch from a back. If, in the course of reading your paper, you become excited, nervous and indignant, and you must frequently clear your throat, the chances are that your throat is affected by catarrh and it may be the beginning of more serious trouble. Next, in the morning before taking your usual smoke, wait up three flights of stairs at a regular pace, then stop. If you find that you are out of breath, your heart beat is forced, trembling or irregular, you may be a victim of functional or organic heart trouble. If you feel that you must smoke, chew or pipe to quiet your nerves, you are a slave to the tobacco habit, and are positively poisoning yourself with the deadly drug, nicotine. In either case you have just two alternatives—keep on with the self-poisoning process irrespective of the dangers and suffer the consequences, or give up the habit and escape the dangers. You can overcome the craving and stop the habit in a very short time by adopting the following inexpensive formula. Go to any drug store and ask for Nicotol tablets, take one tablet after each meal, and in a comparatively short time you will have no desire for tobacco; the craving will have left you. With the nicotine poison out of your system your general health will quickly improve.

Note—When asked about Nicotol tablets one of our readers writes: "It is truly a wonderful remedy for the tobacco habit; away ahead of anything we have ever used before. We are indebted to the manufacturers for sending the money to every drug store, and we would not permit the use of our name upon the remedy without mutual consent. Nicotol is sold by drug stores everywhere. Your doctor has it or can get it for you from any wholesale druggist."

COLLEGE RAISES SALARIES

THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES AT MEETING PLAN PROGRESS.

Campaign for More Endowment—Remodel Stevens Hall—Plans to be Made by Architect Baum.

Salaries of full professors at Gettysburg College will be increased $300 this year and those of lower grade "an equitable amount," it was decided at the winter meeting of the Board of Trustees of the College held Monday in the Zion Lutheran Church in Harrisburg. The decision is the outcome of recommendations made by the Executive and Finance Committees at their meeting here November 19 to the Board urging a campaign to raise an endowment fund of $500,000 chiefly for the purpose of increasing the salaries of professors and instructors in the college.

For some time the college authorities have realized there was a need of increasing the salaries of the teachers if they were to live comfortably under the new cost of living code now in effect and they also realized there was only sufficient funds coming into the college treasury to meet the old salaries and the necessary expenses. The decision just made by the trustees means that at the end of the scholastic year there will be a deficit in the treasury.

To offset this deficit of increase in salaries the Board authorized a campaign for securing additional funds to the "amount of $500,000 or more," the exact amount of the drive is to be determined by the Finance Campaign Committee. A half million dollars is the smallest sum being considered and it is possible the figure may be fixed at three-quarters of a million.

Stevens Hall, located near the Academy building, is to be entirely remodeled before September of next year. The second and third floors will be made into a modern school dormitory and other changes will be made so that it will conform with the State building requirements. The Board authorized these changes and referred the matter to the Building Committee. Plans for remodeling the building have been placed in the hands of George C. Baum, a Philadelphia architect.

It is expected the work of improvement will be commenced early next year and the contract and the furnishing of materials will be given to local builders. The action of the Board is another step forward in which direction Gettysburg has been heading strongly during the past six months and it means the expenditure of many thousands of dollars here during the next year.

The following are the resolutions passed:

"Resolved, That the salaries of full professors be increased by $300 for the present scholastic year 1919-20, and that the Executive Committee be hereby authorized to increase the salaries of those of lower grade on an equitable basis. The Board regrets that a larger increase cannot be granted at this time but assures the faculty that as soon as our income warrants it further increases will be made.

Remodel Stevens Hall.

"Resolved, That the Building Committee of this Board be hereby authorized to entirely remodel the second and third floors of Stevens Hall into a modern school dormitory for boys and make any other necessary changes in the building to harmonize the whole and make it conform with the State building requirements. This should be done if possible so that the building will be ready for occupancy when school opens in September 1920.

Financial Campaign.

"Resolved, That a financial campaign is hereby authorized for the securing of additional funds for Pennsylvania College to the amount of $500,000 or more, the exact amount to be determined by the Finance Campaign Committee provided for in the next resolution.

The Committee.

"Resolved, That this financial campaign shall be under the entire direction and control of a Financial Campaign Committee. Martin H. Buchler, Fred. H. Bloomhardt, Burton F. Blough, Jacob A. Clutz, John F. Dapp, Charles J. Fite, William L. Glatfelter, W. A. Granville, Percy D. Hoover, Charles H. Huber, F. H. Kaubel, Harvey C. Miller, H. C. Pickens, S. F. Snyder, G. F. Sanders, M. H. Englishman Believes He Has Discovered the Site of Edward the Confessor's Palace.

In Windsor's great park the discovery has been made of what appears to be the site of Edward the Confessor's palace. The discoverer, Capt. Vaughan Williams, had his attention drawn to two moats where rabbits had been burrowing, and here he unearthed some tiles like Norman bricks. He next came upon flints, sandstone and tiles, and he is continuing the search. In the days of Queen Victoria, a tower with walls 12 feet thick was pulled down which was said by archeologists to have been built by Edward the Confessor. The secretary of the Berkshire Archeological society in connection with Capt. Williams' find, states that there was before the foundation of Windsor castle a palace in Windsor forest where many notable events happened. This palace had a tower as a means of defense. In a Harleian MS. an illumination occurs which represents a palace where a lady is seen giving alms and earning for herself the title of "loaf-giver." The manor of Old Windsor belonged to the Saxon kings, and Edward the Confessor certainly held court there. Edward being prevented by his nobles from going to Rome caused Westminster to be built with the money which he would have spent on his journey. He then gave Old Windsor to the monks, but the gift was revoked by William the Conqueror, who found Windsor convenient for his hunts in the forests.

Loggers Use Electricity.

A lumber company cutting timber from one of the national forests has installed over a mile of electric transmission line through the woods to supply an electric logging engine with power. It is planned ultimately to use electricity for the entire camp. Current is developed at the mill. Since many forest fires start from logging equipment and camps, the government foresters regard the introduction of electrical equipment with much favor.

Portable Electric Grinder.

A portable electric grinder for the machine shop, designed to be moved over the work, has the motor of one-eighth to one-half horsepower placed above the work out of the operator's way. The spindle is bored with a five-sixteenth-inch hole to receive an adjustable shaft for interior grinding, and the use of interchangeable grinding wheels adapts the little machine to a wide range of work.

Practical Economy.

"Wife ever get an economical streak?" "She does. Only this summer she figured out she could save $8 in one week by doing her own housework." "How did it work out?" "She got a cook book, I got dyspepsia and the doctor got the $8."—Boston Transcript.

When Twelfth Street Loves

By JEROME G. BEATTY

(Copyright.)

Everybody who was anybody on Twelfth street knew that when Terry Malone got to be a dealer on the L. C. Way, Mary Donohue would stop making out checks at the Anti-Trust laundry substation and begin light house-keeping in a three-room flat on Fourteenth.

Terry had been a capper on the L. C. Way three summers, and there never was a better capper than Terry, according to "Honest Bill" Cannan, who owned the gambling privileges on the "pleasure steamer." For two dollars a day Terry sailed with the steamer every afternoon and every night, and on each trip won from $100 to $1,000 at the roulette wheel, the spindle, and the Klondike game. And at the end of each trip, before Honest Bill would let him off the boat Terry would give back all the money he had won.

Terry's first knowledge of gambling had come when he was lookout for the poker game in the rear of his father's saloon, and was known to the big gamblers as a likely kid. The dealer at the spindle game on the L. C. Way was going to quit to run a handbook, and Honest Bill had promised the job to Terry.

It paid five dollars a day and was easy work—for a battery on a spindle is not difficult to operate, and after a few moments' practice even an amateur could make Honest Bill's whirling arrow do things a self-respecting, well-behaved arrow would not think of doing.

Twelfth street was proud of Terry and his employer, for Twelfth street had a code of morals all its own. It labeled Terry as an honest, hard-working young man—for, as far as Twelfth street knew, Terry never had robbed a house or dragged an intoxicated man down an alley. With Twelfth street gambling was an honored profession—a contest of wits.

Terrance Malone was proud of Mary—and who wouldn't be? Her dark brown hair always was dressed just so, and her eyes laughed continually at her little Irish nose. Her mouth was a little impudent, perhaps; but Twelfth street itself is impudent.

The young men brought their laundry to Mary's office, and stopped to talk fashions and actors and baseball with her. Mary was an expert on all three subjects, and was willing to chat and smile with all of them—for she was paid on a percentage basis. But to all invitations to dinner or to theaters she had the same answer:

"Sorry, but there's no chance." And she would flash in their eyes the two and one-sixteenth carat engagement ring that had cost Terry $7.87 at a Brazilian diamond emporium.

Then came the "New Deal," as the newspapers called it. A cyclone of civic righteousness swept the city, driving out the chief of police and the commissioners that had appointed him. The criminals were notified to leave town. Honest Bill and his friends were classed right in with the second-story workers, much to the honest indignation of both parties concerned. The L. C. Way was turned into a picnic steamer and Terry was out of a job.

Honest Bill saw what was coming, and got from under. He settled down in his flat, began to become acquainted with his wife and family, and prepared to run for alderman of the Second ward.

But Terry couldn't stay. "Till be back soon," he promised Mary, bravely stifling a desire to take a long, deep breath and crowd down something that was sticking in his throat.

"And I'll wait forever, Terry," Mary cooed.

Terry went to Chicago where, his friends told him, the going was good. But it wasn't. He wrote every day—for several days. He became discouraged in a strange city, and he longed for Mary and for Twelfth street.

Mary's letters were as cheering as hours of editing could make them. She kept him informed as to the clean-up, and warned him that, although she would give anything to see him, he'd better keep away. Several of the boys who had stayed were in jail awaiting trial.

"I'd rather be in jail in Kansas City than be mayor of Chicago," was Terry's answer. But he stayed in Chicago.

Everything was all right until Mr. Spike Kelley, first baseman and champion hitter, began a crusade against corporations by taking his shirts and collars to the Anti-Trust laundry.

Mr. Kelley, who was distinguished by the fact that he never wore the same necktie twice in the same week, always brought and called for his laundry.

He was especially proficient in dictating upon the good times that come to a baseball player's wife, who sits in a box at the games and always travels with the team.

Mary's letters to Terry began to contain more and more warning of what the police would do to him if they caught him.

Terry in the meantime had obtained a permanent address, and was clerking in a Chicago clothing store. He had "tied gambling," but had had no success.

Terry was writing regularly to Mary, and never did he suspect that his sweetheart had subscribed to the paper that issued a pink sporting extra.

"I want you not to consider me," he answered.

"I'm not considering you at all," Barbara snapped, her eyes riveted on the topeytury volume. "You can wake up that Italian and talk to him if you still feel in need of conversation."

She noticed with exasperation what was wrong with Ruskin, and turned the book about.

"I should not continue to bother you if I didn't have a reason. It is really necessary that I should talk to you."

Barbara studied Ruskin.

"What my reason is I cannot explain; but it is very serious."

Still she studied.

"I must insist that you listen to me."

She raised her hand toward a little brass ring above her head. Then she started at him:

"Do you want me to yank that danger signal and stop the train?"

"No! Stop!" he shouted, starting nervously.

Barbara reveled in that nervous start of his.

"You're afraid, are you? Well, be quiet, or I'll do it."

Then she ground her teeth, determined.

He was silent for some minutes. Then he tried her on another tack.

"We may have mutual acquaintances," he ventured. "I haven't told you my name. It is Crosby."

"Carroll Crosby?"

"What! The painter? I don't believe you."

He drew forth a card.

"Please," he said pleadingly.

She was intent on being intent upon her book, but he had her now. She couldn't help being curious. She read R. A. upon the card. Her rudeness came over her with a qualm.

"I've heard about you from the Bensons," she said humbly. "I'm so sorry."

"Sorry that you've heard about me?" He laughed to put her at her ease.

"You mean the Hyland Bensons, I suppose. I know his landscapes."

"They're the people that are to meet me at Florence," Barbara whimpered.

"I've been rude. You'll think me awful. But—here her spirit sprang to self-defense—"you know what you suggested."

"You believe me now to be a gentleman of honor?"

"Oh, don't! That isn't kind. It hurts."

"Forgive me," Crosby said. "But I want you to understand me. I had, and still have, a very good reason for asking you to stop off with me at Prato, The Fra Filippo Lippis were only an excuse."

"The reason?"

There was a flurry in Barbara's breast. Was he going to be foolish, after all? Other men had been foolish; they had even praised her turned-up nose. But she knew she wasn't pretty; at least, she didn't think so.

"It is not a personal one," Crosby answered.

And Barbara—she didn't know why—was a little hurt.

"What is it, then?"

"I cannot tell you; but it is a very potent one. I beg you to believe me when I say that it is necessary—really necessary—that you leave this train with me at Prato."

"I don't see why."

"Then I shall go with you to Florence."

Barbara wondered.

"But that wouldn't do as well," he added gravely. "If you will get out with me at Prato—and you must—I shall tell you the reason as soon as the train has left the station."

"Why not now?"

"I have told you that I cannot. The next train for Florence will be along in a couple of hours. I will telegraph the Partridges. While you are waiting I shall stay with you, or leave you, just as you choose. My purpose will then be fulfilled."

His purpose!

Are you trying to see if you can command me?" Barbara asked him sharply. "Men are strong; but women are stubborn."

"I don't command; I beg. You will thank me. The Partridges will thank me. A gentleman would never be as rude as I have been unless he had good reason."

The word "rude" stung her.

"Here's Prato now. Will you trust me?" His eyes joined his voice in pleading with her.

Barbara had never yet been beaten by a man. Her pride still bristled up when the train put on the brakes.

"Won't you trust me?" He asked it as a favor.

She wondered now if she would yield. The train clattered to a full stop. Crosby opened the door of the compartment.

"Come," he said, commanding.

Barbara followed him. He said nothing till the train had gone.

"Will you tell me why I'm here?" Barbara asked him pertly.

"Yes. But I want to compliment you first upon your fortitude. An English girl would have acted differently. If I had known you from the first, I might have decided not to speak to you, after all."

"You don't like me?" said Barbara.

"That's too bad."

"I like you very much," he answered.

"Did you make me get out just to tell me that?"

"No."

"Why, then?"

"Did you notice that Italian in the car?"

"It is not my custom to notice strangers." Then she added, to soothe away the sting: "Especially when they are foreigners asleep."

"He wasn't asleep," said Crosby.

"His hat was down. You couldn't see. I sat opposite. His throat was cut from ear to ear."

If You Have a Cold and Neglect It You Are Taking Chances of Pneumonia

Get a cold and decided to let it wear off, have you?

This neglect and taking chances with colds is responsible for more deaths than the whole list of diseases. It gives the way for all kinds of disease, particularly pneumonia.

The cold settles down and attacks the lining of the lungs—then it is pneumonia.

Many "cough syrups" and "balms" are dangerous. Their only effect is from opium and other nerve-deadening drugs they contain. It is a temporary, stupefying effect, and the cold remains just the same and wears away the weakened body. It only disappears when its place is taken by a more serious disease like pneumonia.

Cataract Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy.

Cataract deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists.

Practical Gifts for Christmas 1919.

Here are Christmas suggestions for acceptable Gifts, available in a wider choice than you may have hoped to meet at this time. In a spirit of helpfulness, Ready-to-Wear sections now present advantageous selections which, with the Christmas message, will identify each Gift as one of thoughtful consideration for luxurious comfort.

A charming accessory for the Suit or Tailored Dress is found in the Neck Piece of Fur Fabric—so much in favor now because of their beauty and the added warmth they give—as becoming in effect as Furs and much less expensive. We show several styles and different qualities. Straight Scarf, silk lined with pockets and belt at $10.00, others in Cape effect with pockets and buckle trimmed belt, still others trimmed with fringe of chenille—an excellent imitation of Seal—$20.00 to $25.00.

The Neck Piece of Mårabo also makes a welcome addition to the Winter Suit. Soft, fluffy Scarfs in styles much like the fur pieces, also Capes and deep collar effects. These give the finishing touch and much of the warmth furs would supply at the comparatively small price of $10.00 to $25.00.

NO OTHER GIFT CAN EQUAL FURS.

The happiness reflected in any woman's face who receives a Fur Piece from these carefully selected and fashionable Peltries will rival the becoming softness of the Fur.

ALL THE NEWEST SHAPES

All the newest shapes in many of the wanted kinds at ANY PRICE YOU DESIRE

A SMART SUIT IS A GENEROUS GIFT.

The very beauty of the soft textures in these Suits gives them an unusual gift interest aside from their assurance of enduring satisfaction combined with smart style. To solve the appropriately generous gift suggestion for wife, mother or daughter, one will find delightful aid in this group of interestingly priced Suits of Velour, Silvertone and Tricotine. Serge Suits as low as $12.75 up to $75.

SILK AND SERGE DRESSES

We still have a good assortment to offer in splendid styles although the selling has been very brisk for some time. New lowered prices from now on, $12.50 up.

EVENING DRESSES.

Charming little dance frocks in Crepe de Chine, Taffeta and Messaline in shades of corn, orchid, light blue, pink, &c., beautifully embellished, $15 up.

SILK WAISTS AND BLOUSES

Georgette and Crepe de Chine, embroidered or trimmed with dainty hemstitching and buttons, exclusive designs and beautiful in quality, $5.00, $6.50 to $13.50.

SUIT BLOUSES.

Taffeta and Messaline Suit Blouses in all colors, $3.50 to $6.00.

XMAS BOUDOIR CAPS.

Were never more enchanting than you will see in our collection. Caps of dotted white nets, of ribbon, of sheer lawns and georgettes; caps with ribbon, flowers and lace; caps suggest bonnets: more caps in a word than we can describe, but every last one possessing a prettiness that makes it exactly the real thing for a Xmas want. Prices 50c., $1, $1.25 up.

Christmas Handkerchiefs.

Silk H. S. Jap Handkerchiefs, for men, $1.25.

Our Handkerchiefs spread out are a feast to the eyes. Never have we shown so varied a lot, from the 5c. lawns in plain, embroidered and colored borders to the fine Maderia embroidered for ladies in linen or fine bordered in batiste, silk, crepe de chine, regular & glove size at 25 & 50c. Both men's and ladies' plain hemstitched linens in several grades. Men's Linen 35, 60, 75 and 90c. Ladies' Linen 30, 40 and 50c. Initialed Handkerchiefs in little letters, 25c. Men's Cotton at 18 and 25c. Ladies' Cotton in't at 25c. Thousands embroidered at 10 and 15c. Boxed Handkerchiefs for Children as also for Ladies in pretty boxes at 10c. up to $1.75.
